

Alka Sadat

Alka Sadat is an Afghan documentary and feature film producer and director. She became famous with her first 25-minute film Half Value Life, which highlights social injustice and crime; the film won several awards. For her first film she received the Afghan Peace Prize and since then has made many documentaries for which she has won many international awards as a producer and director and also for her work in Television.